

Saturn

The thousands of thin rings which surround Saturn consist of billions of individual particles of mostly water ice which exhibit waves, wakes and other structures. NASA's Cassini mission to Saturn observed an icy plume on Saturn's moon Enceladus, which may be contributing material into one of the rings.

KEY

ring particles

Saturn globe

major ring borders

